Dear Licensees:

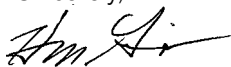

After more than 80 years, Alabama's control method is still succeeding in balancing the promotion of moderation in the consumption of alcoholic beverages with the offering of a wide variety of products at fair prices, while returning a generous profit to the state's General Fund. Through its efficient operation, the ABC Board provides more than $250 million each year to state and local governments, with money flowing to the General Fund, Department of Human Resources, Department of Mental Health, education, and cities and counties. Control is clearly working for Alabama. Why change it? Indeed, why, when our state desperately needs stable, dependable revenue sources and Alabamians working and paying taxes, would we take this risk? In general, control states like Alabama report lower consumption and higher revenue from the sale of alcohol. That's a win-win!

As you may have noticed, many of our stores are getting upgrades. Some of them are starting to look more modern, more like boutiques than the typical state liquor store. We receive many positive comments from suppliers and consumers. While I am boasting about our stores, I want to brag about our employees! They are an incredible group of people who have worked tirelessly throughout this COVID-19 pandemic. While some of the stores were temporally closed either for disinfecting or lack of manpower due to exposure and quarantine requirements, our store employees did their best to keep themselves and our customers safe. The Board and I are very proud of their hard work and dedication.

I hope you are continuing to enjoy editions of Alabama Select Spirits and are finding the information beneficial to your business. Several new items have been added to our product line. The new listings can be found in this edition. Please check with local stores concerning the availability of these products and, if there is a product that you are interested in but don't find listed, please inquire about special orders. Customer service remains a top priority and I encourage you to contact my office if you have any questions or need assistance.

The weather is getting warmer and all across the state retailers are anxiously awaiting the summer months. Pool parties, beach trips and afternoons on the lake. I would like to take the opportunity to wish everyone a safe and happy summer and to remind you to sell, serve and celebrate responsibly.

Sincerely,

H.M. Gipson

TEQUILA UP SURPRISING

The agave spirit continues to captivate.

the category to new heights. Tequila consumption in the United States rose from 15 million 9-liter cases in 2015 to 19.8 million cases in 2019, according to the Beverage Information Group's 2020 Liquor Handbook. Tequila jumped 6.6 percent from 2018 to 2019, and by early estimates it was on track to far exceed that increase in 2020.

"Tequila is by far our most popular spirit," says Mike Moreno, of Moreno's Liquors in Chicago. Moreno's currently stocks hundreds of brands of tequila, totaling more than 750 SKUs, ranging from blancos and cristalinos up to high-end extra añejos. Single barrel picks have heated up in the category. "We currently do roughly 20 single barrels a year for tequila alone," says Moreno.

Legacy Wine and Spirits in Little Rock, Arkansas, carries roughly 55 different brands of tequila, says Jake Dell, Legacy's purchasing manager and certified Cicerone. "We stock all the big multinational brands," Dell adds, "but we are also seeing an influx of smaller, boutique tequila products in our store."

The retailer has seen a sizable shift to premiumization in the tequila category. Consumers always look for the next hidden gem that their friends haven't tried, and tequila is no exception, Dell notes. "Exclusivity is valued, just like in the high-end wine and whiskey categories—more so than in vodka or gin, where people tend to stay much more brand loyal."

MEZCAL MATTERS

The enduring popularity of tequila has increased curiosity about and consumption of mezcal, tequila's smokier cousin. "Mezcal is one of our fastest-growing categories, right on par

A History of THE WORLD'S ORIGINAL TEQUILA

Jose Cuervo has been making tequila for over 250 years with the same experience, craftsmanship, and recipes that have been handed down generation through generation.

1700s

IN MEXICO, A LEGEND IS ABOUT TO BE BORN.

In 1758, José Antonio de Cuervo y Valdés was given a writ of land ownership by King Fernand VI to plant agave on his lands for producing tequila.

1795

King Carlos IV issued a royal decree in Spain granting Jose Maria Guadalupe Cuervo y Montana the first license to produce and distribute tequila.

Casa Cuervo could never have imaged that the hundreds of agave plants they were cultivating would eventually multiply to millions of plants with the passage.

with American whiskeys,” Moreno says. The store’s mezcal section is growing as it is, Dell says, so supply could be an issue if it gets more popular. “We can just hope our distributors keep bringing in new producers and products to keep up with our customers’ thirst for new tequilas and mezcals of all kinds.”

El Crisol in Tucson, Arizona, is an agave-spirits-focused bar, with mezcal dominating, says founder Doug Smith. “So mezcal is far and away our most popular spirit. The education program we have, involving weekly tastings and presentations on the production regions, production methods, and different mezcal types, has certainly helped seed the spirit in the minds of our guests.” Sipping and savoring is the way to approach the enormous complexity of all kinds of mezcal, Smith explains. “Most people begin with an espadín on the lower end of the price scale and go up from there to the rarer, wild species mezcals.”

AGAVE-BASED COCKTAILS

Mezcal is quite versatile as a cocktail base, says Smith. “Cocktail design is about combining ingredients to produce something that exceeds the sum of its parts. The smoke characteristic of mezcal can be a real asset here, but it might also get in the way of the expression of other ingredients.”

Also, the wide range of flavor profiles in mezcals allows for many, many permutations, which makes it fun to experiment with, Smith notes. That said, mezcal tends to be expensive, “so one has to be careful about costs and pricing.”

THE EFFECT OF COVID-19

For certain, tequila, Margarita kits, and Margaritas-to-go have become brisk sellers during the Covid-19 pandemic. “We saw a dramatic increase in tequila sales when Covid-19 forced people to stay home and quarantine” Dell says. “It’s known around here that the drink of choice of the typical non-drinker/social drinker is a Margarita: Simple to make at home with just the spirit and premade mix.”

While the pandemic has boosted tequila demand, the downside is that it will accelerate the agave shortage, Moreno says. “We unfortunately will see a lot of smaller craftier distilleries disappear and a less vast selection of extra añejos.”

The pandemic shut down El Crisol completely, Smith says. “Under a relaxation of liquor license rules put in place by the governor of the state, we were offering virtual mezcal tastings and cocktails-to-go for awhile. But after a court ruling terminated those dispensations two or three months ago, we have been in total hiatus.”

He remains optimistic that the bar will resume, and his plan is to deepen El Crisol’s mission. “That is, we intend to fix our identity as an agave spirits and sotol tasting room. We’ll still be a bar offering cocktails, wines, and beers, but we plan to hone our selection of agave spirits, specialize particularly on mezclals from the Mexican north, strengthen our relationships with producers in Mexico, and enhance our education programs.” In short, Smith says, “We’ll get even more grounded and nerdier.”

BOOST TEQUILA SALES BY HIGHLIGHTING MARGARITAS

Retailers agree that the tequila cocktail-of-choice for an increasing number of consumers is the margarita. So give your customers what they want!

Highlight a wide variety of tequila and flavored tequila offerings along with triple sec and other orange-flavored liqueurs. Also feature available premade margarita mixes in case they don’t want to make the cocktail from scratch, and suggest they try margarita gelatin shooters for a refreshing summertime treat.

Basic Margarita

Serve in a chilled or frosted, salted margarita glass.

1½-2 ounces white, gold, or flavored tequila
½-1 ounce orange-flavored liqueur
Juice of ½ large lime
Lime wedge

Combine the tequila, liqueur, and lime juice in a shaker half-filled with fresh ice; shake vigorously, and strain into the prepared serving glass. Garnish with the lime wedge.

Margarita Gelatin Shooters

Prepare the shooters in shot glasses, plastic cups, or small molds.

3 ounces tequila or flavored tequila
2 ounces orange-flavored liqueur
1 ounce fresh lime juice
¼ cup cold water
1 (3-ounce) box lime gelatin
1 cup boiling water

Combine the tequila, liqueur, lime juice, and cold water in a small bowl. Mix well, and refrigerate for 1 hour.

Combine the gelatin and boiling water in a medium-size bowl, and stir until the gelatin dissolves. Stir in the chilled tequila mixture; pour the combined mixture into the shot glasses, cups, or molds. Refrigerate the shooters until the gelatin sets. Serve the shooters with toothpicks or swizzle sticks so they can be stirred (and liquefied) a little before drinking.

THE WHISKEY HIGHBALL

Simply Refreshing

Help your customers discover (or rediscover) one of the quickest, easiest, and most refreshing mixed drinks ever created—the whiskey highball.

According to some mixologists, this longtime favorite got its name because people had fun (“had a ball”) drinking it from a tall (“high”) glass. Over time, the whiskey highball became known as an outdated, old-fashioned drink. Thanks in part to innovative offerings in the whiskey/whisky category, consumers are now turning to the whiskey highball as a one-plus alternative to sophisticated cocktails that require multiple ingredients mixed in a cocktail shaker or blender.

In the late 1800s, the highball was made with whiskey and club soda. Today it is made with all styles of whiskey/whisky, including rye, Tennessee, blended, bourbon, Irish, Canadian, Japanese, Scotch, and moonshine. It is still mixed with club soda, although ginger ale has become the most commonly used mixer.

Take advantage of the renewed popularity of this classic drink, and encourage your customers to once again “have a ball” drinking their favorite whiskey/whisky mixed with their carbonated beverage of choice from a chilled “high” glass!

The Whiskey/Whisky Highball

Serve in a chilled tall (highball) glass.

2–2½ ounces whiskey/whisky of choice

4–6 ounces chilled ginger ale or club soda

Place fresh ice in the serving glass. Pour in the whiskey/whisky. Fill the glass with ginger ale or club soda—do not stir (the bubbles in the carbonated beverage will “mix” the ingredients).

BOURBON

BOOM!

BY ELLEN GOMORY

OVER THE PAST DECADE, BOURBON'S STAR HAS BEEN ON THE RISE AND SHOWS NO SIGNS of slowing down. This billion-dollar industry has demonstrated a steady and consistent increase in sales and market value that even the novel coronavirus was unable to impede upon. Whereas in the past, periods of immense growth like the one we are currently experiencing have been followed by a drop, the current trajectory shows no signs of falling off. This is a bourbon boom that experts agree seems unlikely to be followed by any bust.

During the 1970s, bourbon fell into a rut as public interest turned to lighter and younger liquors like vodka, leaving distillers sitting on millions of barrels of inventory, unable to spark consumer interest. Today, the landscape could not look more different. This past year alone Kentucky distillers (who account for 95% of the world's supply of bourbon) filled more than 1.7 million barrels of bourbon—up four times from 1999.

There are several factors that have likely contributed to bourbon's meteoric rise. The first is the introduction of small-batch and single-barrel expressions in the early nineties, which helped to bolster bourbon's reputation as a premium liquor. In addition, in the nineties, NAFTA and EU agreements introduced bourbon to a global market. Any bourbon sold to countries with whom the United States had a trade agreement had to comply with the United States' definition of the liquor, ensuring that bourbon retained its standing overseas.

Then came the "Mad Men effect" and the resurgence of cocktail culture in the early 2000's. Classic cocktails like the Manhattan and Old Fashioned came back into fashion and were once again staples on bar and restaurant menus and in homes across the country. Bar tenders discovered that the small-batch and single-barrel expressions were able not only to stand on their own, but they were also fantastic in cocktails.

Another important factor was the rise of bourbon tourism and the founding of the Kentucky Bourbon Trail. Like wine tourism in California, the Kentucky Bourbon Trail invited bourbon drinkers and aficionados to enjoy an inside look at Kentucky's finest distilleries, while also inviting participants to sample the goods. The rise in bourbon tourism has grown steadily (with the exception of this past year due to travel restrictions), and in 2018 a record 1.4 million tourists visited.

Bourbon expansion seems to be unthreatened by any competition. Tequila is the only other liquor that has shown any sign of competing, however, it cannot come close to keeping up with or outpacing bourbon's trajectory.

While liquor sales overall have done well during the pandemic, bourbon in particular has thrived. In 2020, bourbon sales were up 30% from the previous year, demonstrating exceptional and unprecedented growth. Bourbon sales seem unlikely to slow down or decrease in the foreseeable future; and there's no reason they should. Bourbon's smooth, rich flavor is perfect for cocktails or over ice, any time of year.

VODKA

the King of Summer

BY ELLEN GOMORY

TIMELESS, CLASSIC AND ALWAYS IN SEASON, VODKA IS THAT FRIEND THAT EVERYONE WANTS TO HAVE AT THEIR PARTY, who mixes well with everyone, eases tensions and makes sure the whole party is having fun. As the days grow longer and warmer, so too does the need for smooth, quality vodka, and luckily, that need has been met with the rise of domestic craft vodka distribution across the country.

The king of liquor and a household staple, vodka continues to dominate the overall market, accounting for approximately one third of total liquor sales nationwide. Over the past years, its popularity has only grown with the rise of high-quality domestic craft producers in an industry formerly dominated by overseas distributors. Whereas in the past top-shelf vodka was synonymous with foreign imports, the recent rise in quality domestic production has meant more American-made vodka from large and small distributors alike.

Long valued for its neutrality and blendability, craft vodka offers vodka a bold new taste and identity capable of standing on its own. Until recently, regulatory language defined vodka as a liquor “without distinctive character, aroma, taste, or color,” however, recent changes to that language made by the U.S. Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau have opened the door for craft producers.

Rather than relying on additive flavor, vodka producers are now able to focus on the inherent flavors and characteristics of the liquor itself to create a rich, smooth and complex palate that needs no mixer. Like bourbon and tequila, vodka is enjoying a craft renaissance, and for the first time, U.S. manufacturers are leading the way.

Another important shift has been in language that previously required vodka to be made only from potatoes or grain. Released from these restrictions, producers are turning to creative new source materials like Canadian corn, English wheat or even agave to distill unique and tantalizing flavors.

Rest assured, that has not led to a decrease in the popularity of flavored vodkas, which account for nearly 13% of total vodka sales. Flavored vodkas have similarly moved to more boutique branding, with real fruit juice, natural flavors and lower sugar content meant to appeal to health-conscious consumers. While some of that market has been lost to the rise of canned beverages and seltzers, flavored vodka continues to enjoy immense overall popularity.

The rise in domestic vodka production has also meant a heightened attention to regional vodka producers, and Alabama has led the way. A dozen distilleries have sprung up across the yellowhammer state attracting local and national attention. Just this past October, USA Today named Dread River Distilling Company in Birmingham, Alabama as the sixth best distillery in the entire nation.

As the future of vodka production continues to expand, keep an eye on both local and national craft producers as they light the way for future production.

Celebrate AMERICA!

THE KENTUCKY DERBY, MEMORIAL DAY, FOURTH OF JULY, AND LABOR DAY HOLIDAYS

make summer the ideal time to highlight American-made spirits, mixers, and cocktails. Help your customers celebrate America by promoting a wide variety of bourbon, American whiskey, Tennessee whiskey, moonshine, and craft spirits as well as classic American cocktails made with Coca-Cola, 7-Up, and Vernors Ginger Ale.

Share some interesting historical details about these made-in-America beverages and classic mixed drinks with your customers. If they are interested in learning more, suggest they participate in the Kentucky Bourbon Trail tours (kybourbontrail.com) or visit individual distilleries. Also suggest they visit the World of Coca-Cola museum in Atlanta (worldofcoca-cola.com).

COCA-COLA

In 1886, Dr. John S. Pemberton, a pharmacist in Atlanta, Georgia, formulated a new tasty syrup. He took it to Jacobs' Pharmacy, where it was mixed with carbonated water to make a "delicious and refreshing" soda fountain drink. Frank M. Robinson, Dr. Pemberton's partner, suggested the name "Coca-Cola" and wrote it in the unique script that is still used for this iconic beverage.

Rum and Coke

Serve in a chilled collins glass.

*2-3 ounces rum, spiced rum, or flavored rum
3-4 ounces chilled Coca-Cola or flavored Coca-Cola*

Place fresh ice in the prepared serving glass. Add the rum and Coca-Cola; do not stir—the bubbles will naturally “mix” the ingredients.

7-UP

In the late 1920s, Charles Leiper Grigg, an entrepreneur in St. Louis, Missouri, formulated a new soft drink that he called “Bib-Label Lithiated Lemon-Lime Soda.” The name was shortened to “7Up Lithiated Lemon Soda,” and in 1936 it became known simply as “7-Up.”

7 and 7

Serve in a chilled collins glass.

*2-3 ounces Seagram's 7 Crown whiskey
3-6 ounces chilled 7-Up*

Place fresh ice in the prepared serving glass. Add the whiskey and 7-Up; do not stir—the bubbles will naturally “mix” the ingredients.

VERNORS GINGER ALE

James Vernor, a pharmacist in Detroit, Michigan, created a medicinal tonic mixture of vanilla, spices, and ginger. When he opened his own pharmacy in 1866, he began selling the mixture as a soda fountain drink. Today this popular zesty, sweet, ginger-flavored beverage is enjoyed as both a refreshing drink and a versatile mixer.

Vodka and Vernors

Serve in a chilled cocktail glass.

*2-3 ounces vodka
2-3 ounces chilled Vernors Ginger Ale*

Place fresh ice in the prepared serving glass. Add the vodka and the Vernors Ginger Ale; do not stir—the bubbles will naturally “mix” the ingredients.

BOURBON

Most historians agree that bourbon has been distilled by aging corn whiskey since the 1700s in Kentucky, and they also agree that many people had a hand in creating what became known as bourbon. Dr. James Crow, a doctor and chemist who came to the United States from Scotland and worked at a distillery on Glenss Creek in Kentucky in the 1830s, is widely acknowledged as “the father of modern bourbon.” He freely shared the results of his experiments with processing sour mash, which helped popularize the resulting flavorful, mixable spirit.

Mint Julep

This distinctly Southern cocktail originated in Kentucky during the 1700s. In 1938, it was selected to be the signature drink of the Kentucky Derby.

Serve in a chilled mint julep cup.

4-5 whole mint leaves
¼-½ ounce sugar syrup

Whole mint leaf

Place the mint leaves in the prepared serving cup; add the sugar syrup, and mash (muddle) together until mixed. Fill the cup with fresh crushed ice, and add the bourbon. Garnish with the mint leaf.

AMERICAN WHISKEY

The American whiskey category includes a number of distilled beverages made from fermented cereal grain mash—corn whiskey, rye whiskey, malt whiskey, wheat whiskey, and Tennessee whiskey (which is required to be made in Tennessee). Widely popular for both its versatility and mixability, American whiskey has been produced in the United States since colonial days. Consumers enjoy it neat, on the rocks, or swirled with “branch” (tap) water, as well as in a wide variety of cocktails.

Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey Old-Fashioned

Serve in a chilled old-fashioned glass.

2-2 ounces Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey
½-1 ounce simple syrup
1-2 dashes Jack Daniel's Tennessee Cocktail Bitters
Orange twist
Maraschino

Place fresh ice in the prepared serving glass. Combine the Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey, simple syrup, and bitters in a shaker half-filled with fresh ice. Shake vigorously, and strain the mixed drink into the prepared serving glass. Garnish with orange twist and cherry.

Sazerac

This timeless cocktail was created at the Sazerac Coffee House in New Orleans in the mid-1800s.

Serve in a chilled old-fashioned glass.

1-1½ teaspoons absinthe or anise-flavored liqueur
1-1½ teaspoons superfine sugar
3-4 dashes bitters

Splash of water
2-3 ounces whiskey
Lemon twist

Pour the absinthe into the prepared serving glass, and swirl to coat the glass; discard any extra liquid. Combine the sugar, bitters, and water in a mixing glass; mix until the sugar dissolves. Add the whiskey and fresh ice; mix well. Strain the mixed drink into the serving glass, and garnish with the lemon twist.

MOONSHINE

Moonshine has its roots in the mountains of Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee, West Virginia, and Kentucky during the 1800s. Once illegally distilled in the backwoods and sold out of car trunks and pickup trucks, moonshine now enjoys a legitimate, respected place on the shelves of restaurants and retail stores.

Moonshine Sour

Serve in a chilled sours glass.

2-2½ ounces moonshine
1-1½ ounces lemon juice
1 tablespoon sugar syrup
Orange twist
Maraschino cherry

Combine the moonshine, lemon juice, and sugar syrup in a cocktail shaker half-filled with fresh ice; shake vigorously, and strain into the prepared serving glass. Garnish with the orange twist and cherry.

Moonshine Manhattan

Serve in a chilled cocktail glass.

2-2½ ounces moonshine
¾-1 ounce sweet vermouth
3-4 dashes bitters or flavored bitters
Lemon or orange twist
Maraschino cherry

Combine the moonshine, vermouth, and bitters in a mixing glass half-filled with fresh ice. Stir well, and strain the mixed drink into the prepared serving glass. Garnish with the lemon or orange twist and cherry.

ECO FRIENDLY WINE & SPIRITS

BY JEREMY NEDELKA

Note: This excerpt is printed with permission from the Winter 2020 issue of StateWays—the Beverage Alcohol Merchandising Magazine for Control States.

WHILE THERE ARE NUMEROUS ENTRANTS TO THE SUSTAINABLE WINE AND SPIRITS CATEGORY

each year, three suppliers actively promoting their sustainable practices are featured here. Brown Forman, Neft Vodka, and Delicato Family Wines are each at different growth stages, launching decades apart, but all three remain committed to the ideals behind the sustainable products movement and environmentally friendly practices in general.

INTEGRAL TO THE CULTURE

As a company going back generations and dependent upon long-term planning for the success of its wine and spirit brands, Brown-Forman has long embraced sustainability within its company culture. I recently spoke to Suzette Carty, the company's Senior Manager Environmental Sustainability, about Brown-Forman's products and practices.

How does sustainability fit into Brown-Forman's culture?

Our focus on sustainability is an integral part of our heritage. As a business practice we've integrated it over decades as we responsibly grow while protecting the natural environment on which we depend. We've elevated sustainability more formally into our business strategy as a strategic priority and continue to embed sustainability across business functions. Our efforts include increasing collaboration with our supply-chain partners and aligning with the U.N. Sustainable Development Goals.

In what specific ways are your products, packaging, production methods, or other business practices sustainable?

Our Sonoma-Cutrer wines are made by a team dedicated to embedding sustainability into the way we produce our fine wines. The brand's vineyards and winery operations are certified through the California Sustainable Winegrowing Alliance, and our operations are certified as Fish Friendly Farming, a program for agricultural properties that are managed to restore fish and wildlife habitats and improve water quality. We harvest grapes at night to avoid refrigeration, and we have implemented onsite solar energy, providing 150,000 kilowatt hours of energy for our warehouse. Our warehouse expansion also received the LEED gold certification in 2015.

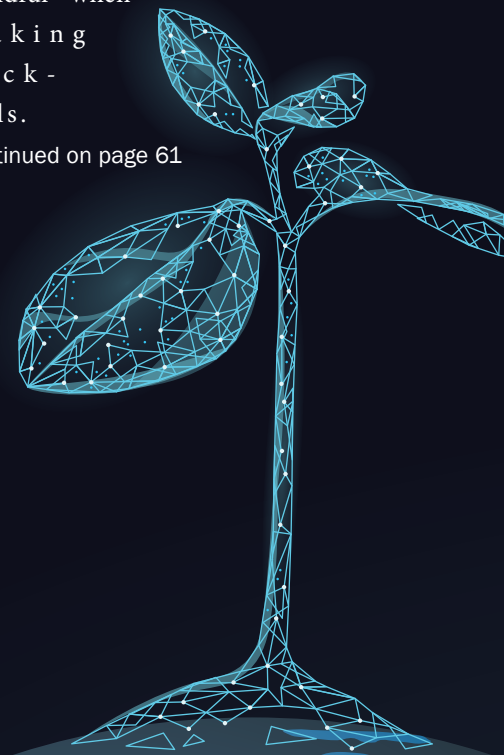

Our company-owned operations have collectively diverted 99.7 percent of waste from the landfill. At the Jack Daniel's Distillery, we've had a zero waste mindset across all aspects of our production process for many years. Our grain and yeast byproduct from the distilling process is sold as cattle feed. The sugar maple charcoal used for filtering has its life extended as smoking pellets for barbecues. Our barrels are repurposed for Scotch whisky and tequila, or if they are no longer able to hold liquid they're made into planters, smoking chips, furniture, and charcoal.

How do you partner with members of the beverage industry to promote sustainability?

Not only do we collaborate to develop programs to reduce our environmental impact, but we also help spread awareness to our customers, consumers, community partners, and other stakeholders. Increasingly, our brands incorporate sustainable messaging into communications, with accounts sharing how to be more environmentally mindful when making cocktails.

Finlandia Vodka has fantastic cocktail tips they share that focus on minimizing waste, using alternatives to plastic straws, and reusing leftover ingredients for flavors and garnishes.

We also partner with our industry peers, knowing that collective action can make transformational changes. Recently, with other members of the Beverage Industry Environmental Roundtable, Casa Herradura started collaboration on a project to address watershed challenges in Jalisco Mexico to restore 21.5 hectares of land that is important to providing water for the region.

PRESERVING FOR GENERATIONS TO COME

I recently spoke to Neft Vodka CEO Jeff Mahony about the brand's commitment to sustainability and its unique packaging.

How does being sustainable fit into your company's culture?

Sustainability is a key tenet of our brand, as well as a cornerstone of our corporate culture. We make every attempt to be planet-friendly without compromising the clean, smooth, and balanced flavor profile of Neft.

The vodka is produced—from the first rye grain to the final sip from the recyclable barrel—via methods that are meant to preserve the environment for the sake of generations to come. To that end, our employees are encouraged to uphold our sustainable culture and are continually finding new ways to conserve energy and reduce waste. Some examples include the decision to prohibit plastic water bottles, a ban on printing documents or materials unless absolutely necessary, and the use of recycled materials for the new bar in our Neft Lounge in El Segundo, California.

How specifically are your practices sustainable?

We are focused on minimizing our environmental impact throughout the production process, from the sourcing of the grain to our protected water supply and our highly recyclable aluminum and tin packaging. We distill and package in Austria, a world leader in agri-environmental programs. We selected the location not only for its pure and protected Alps spring water and proximity to the source of our four non-GMO rye grains, but also for its commitment to organic and sustainable production methods. Our distillery is also powered by low-carbon natural gas and is moving toward 100 percent renewables. Our packaging is lighter than glass and carries a smaller carbon footprint when transported. Tin is also easier to recycle, and aluminum contains, on average, 70 percent recycled content (more than three times the amount in glass or plastic).

How has consumer sentiment around sustainable products shifted in recent years?

We see purchasing decisions by consumers being driven more and more toward favoring brands whose values match their own. Sustainability is chief among the principles that fall within this trend. Consumers are increasingly seeking out and even affording a premium to brands that successfully implement sustainable methodologies in their production, ingredients, and packaging.

BY THE BOX

Delicato Family Wines Bota Box wine brand has long been associated with sustainability due to its packaging. In 2019 the brand launched three new varietals under its premium Nighthawk range. Like the original Bota Box offerings, these new wines are available in 3-liter cartons, 1.5-liter bag-in-boxes, and 500-ml.

Tetra Paks. All of Bota Box's packages are produced at the brand's Certified Sustainable California winery, and they are environmentally friendly. The cartons are 100 percent recyclable and made from unbleached, post-consumer fiber printed with VOC-free ink and bonded with cornstarch.

In 2019, sales of Bota Box were up 15.3 percent compared to 2018, according to the Beverage Information Group. The brand sold 7.95 million case equivalents last year, making it one of the fastest-growing brands among the Growth Brands Award winners. The 2019 Nighthawk releases include Bourbon-Barrel-Aged Cabernet Sauvignon, Pinot Noir, and Sauvignon Blanc.

TELL THE BACKSTORY

Consumers are increasingly interested in protecting/preserving the environment, and they want to purchase products from companies that use sustainable, eco friendly methodologies. Find out the backstory of each beverage and other products you sell, including details about the ingredients and other materials the company uses, the production processes, the packaging, and other environmental-related concerns. Share this information with your customers, and offer to do additional research, if necessary, to answer their questions.
